Avalog introduces consulting firm d-fine as a Special Service Partner

Frankfurt-based d-fine joins Avalog's global partner network to strengthen the leading digital banking solutions provider's implementation capabilities.

Zurich | 28.01.2021

As an official Special Service Partner, the business and technology consultancy firm d-fine is now part of the Avalog Community. More than 1,000 professionals in Germany, Switzerland, Austria and the UK are serving and advising business clients across a wide range of industries. In digital banking solutions, d-fine's consulting approach combines broad functional expertise with proven Avalog Banking Suite implementation experience.

Avalog and d-fine have already successfully joined forces for implementation and upgrade projects in Germany as well as in Switzerland, building on d-fine's profound expertise in banking regulation, combined with its strong technical capabilities. By combining business expertise with hands-on technical skills, d-fine was able to enhance project efficiency considerably and it has also supported Avalog to drive financial product innovation, such as for its new digital assets solution.

In its new role as an Avalog partner, d-fine will focus on business consulting in the fields of controlling and risk, banking regulation, capital markets as well as compliance. In addition, the firm is also capable to contribute cutting-edge expertise in data analytics, artificial intelligence, crypto assets and blockchain technology.

Egbert Schark, Managing Director at d-fine, said: "After providing Avalog services for several clients in Germany and Switzerland, we are very proud to now be an official member of the Avalog Community. In increasingly fast changing markets, we see our partnership with Avalog as a significant added value for our mutual customers in implementing and enhancing the Avalog Banking Suite. We are looking forward to joint new challenges in 2021 and beyond."

Thomas Beck, Group Chief Technology Officer at Avalog, said: "I am delighted to welcome d-fine to our global partner network. The team has clearly demonstrated that it is capable to deliver solution-oriented services in challenging projects and we particularly value their impressive banking expertise. As a leading provider of innovative wealth management technology, we rely on highly specialized and committed partner companies such as d-fine to meet our clients' expectations."
